Winter's Worst Cold Wave Due to Hit City Tuesday

PRESIDENT CLINGS TO CONTROLS

ZERO BLASTS BLOWING IN FROM CANADA

Frigid Weather to Last 3 Days; Mercury Dips 54 Degrees Overnight in Dakotas.

The weather was moderating here today, but the weather bureau warned that the "most severe and prolonged" cold wave of the winter would strike with sudden fury tomorrow.

Weather bureau officials said temperatures were falling "at an astounding rate" in Canada and northern United States, accompanied by blizzards and winds up to 50 miles an hour.

As Mansfield dug itself out of a brief snow storm Saturday night which kept the state highway department and city street department crews busy cindering roads yesterday, the weatherman glumly predicted "an altogether nasty day tomorrow."

The Cleveland weather bureau forecast strong shifting winds and snow squalls tomorrow, with a "rapid decline" of the mercury. By Wednesday morning temperatures will be "around zero."

As a harbinger of things in store for Ohio, the United Press reported the thermometer plunged 54 degrees overnight at Dickinson, N. D. The reading there early today was 15 degrees below zero.

* * *

May Last 3 Days.

The cold wave appeared to be of at least three days duration, the weatherman reported, and the mercury here may reach the low of the winter so far.

Meanwhile, the Richland county office of the state highway department said 100 tons of cinders, 120 bags of chloride and 20 tons of salt were spread on curves, hills and slippery spots of the Richland county highways over the weekend.

The crew of 20 men used eight trucks, each equipped with a spinner which distributed the salt. All county roads were reported open, though some were in hazardous condition.

Mansfield streets today remained slippery in spots and those in the downtown area were covered with black slush.

The groundhog kept in tune with the weather yesterday by seeing his shadow, thus promising six more weeks of winter. The weather bureau, as usual, coldly declined to comment on its animal rival.

The low this morning at Hayesville was 13, while the high yesterday was 21. Longview station of OPS reported the mercury stood at 34 at noon today.

PARTIES MOVE TO FILL SLATES

Mansfield Democratic leaders are scheduled to meet again tonight in an attempt to fill the party's municipal ticket before the Wednesday filing date. Democrats still need seven candidates, including six for council and one for solicitor.

Democratic party leaders reported today that Jacob P. Urschel, 417 Cline avenue, an insurance salesman, is planning to file as a candidate for nomination as councilman-at-large.

They also said that Michael Mihalick, Fourth ward councilman, is "being mentioned" as a possible councilman-at-large candidate.

Republicans, who have six vacancies, said they are trying to complete a slate without "dictating" who the candidates will be and, if possible, to avoid contests in the May 6 primaries

The GOP vacancies include city auditor, treasurer, solicitor, and First, Fourth and Fifth ward council posts.

New Mode Brings Shorter Tresses

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Shorter tresses will dominate the 1947 hair mode, somewhat after the pattern set after the first World war, the Hairdressers' Guild of Ohio informed Ohio women today.

The guild said the new trend in shorter hair would "bring soft, casual lines, and permit women to comb and brush their hair into its natural loveliness."

SHELBY PAPER RAISES PRICE

SHELBY — An increase from three to four cents in the price for single copies of the Daily Globe, Shelby's newspaper, went into effect today.

Torch Ignites Gas; Motorist Hurt Seriously

John H. Kaler, 29, of 425 Central avenue, was seriously injured last night in an explosion when he attempted to "dry out" a gasoline tank with a blow torch. He was reported in "fair" condition today at General hospital.

He was injured about 7:30 p. m. Sunday when an automobile gasoline tank which he was cleaning blew up. Parts of the tank struck him in the face and forehead police said.

Doctors said he suffered a compound fracture of the left forehead, a compound fracture of the nose, a three-inch cut on the forehead and lacerations of the face.

Police said Kaler was cleaning out the gasoline tank of his automobile in the garage at the rear of his home, and it exploded when he applied a blow torch.

He was taken to the hospital in a neighbor's automobile.

Meanwhile, police reported that a John Newton, whose address was unavailable, received a cut chin when he fell on North Main street about midnight yesterday.

Newton was taken to General hospital, where three stitches were taken in his chin. He later was released.

House Frowns on Ohio Senate's Lavish Ideas

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The accent was on spending in the senate and on saving in the house as the 97th Ohio general assembly begins its second month of deliberations tonight.

The first hearings Wednesday by the senate education committee on the Daniels-Cramer bill, earmarking up to 200 million dollars a year for state aid for schools, shared the senate spotlight with the probable start of hearings this week by the special Walcutt liquor investigating committee.

Hearings Delayed.

Other senate acts compelled to accept second billing were hearings on the unified conservation bill by the conservation committee; on pay increases for certain state executives by the finance committee, and on a bonus for World War II veterans by a senate military affairs subcommittee.

In the house, emphasis was placed on the expected report of the Ballard select committee, named by Speaker C. William O'Neill to determine just where state spending must stop.

The committee is headed by Rep. Paul Ballard (R-Jackson) the "treasury watchdog" who also heads the regular house finance committee. He and four other representatives are making a quick canvas of all available funds to determine just how much of a curb must be placed on proposed increases for schools, local governments, state employes, and other lesser petitioners.

The committee's findings are to be bolstered later in the week by the report of State Tax Commissioner C. Emory Glander, who was authorized last year to survey all state tax sources.

Court Justice's Daughter Holds Soda Jerker Job

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — (AP) — Millie Douglas, 17-year old daughter of Supreme Justice William O. Douglas, says she meets "a lot of interesting people" on her part-time job as a "soda jerker."

She's been on the job five months, working Saturdays, Sundays and some evenings. And, very few of the customers she serves are aware that she is a daughter of Justice Douglas.

Millie, who earns 65 cents an hour for her soda-slinging labors, expects to be graduated from high school in June. Then she says, she's going to college.

ROMANTIC TEACHER GETS OUT ON BOND

SANTA FE, N. M.—(UP)—Robert H. Trufant was free under $1,000 bond today, awaiting a hearing tomorrow on a charge of white slavery which interrupted his "international honeymoon" with a 17-year-old student from a Portland, Me., preparatory school.

The 32-year-old history teacher was released yesterday after his mother, Mrs. Mabel Trufant of Oberlin, O., posted bond. U. S. Commissioner Albert Gonzales said the bond had been reduced from $2,500.

Eleanor Louise Trufant, whom Trufant claims to have married before they embarked on a long Thanksgiving elopement, was in the custody of her mother, Mrs. Peter Welch. The pretty young school girl is being held as a material witness for Trufant's hearing.

GIRL, 15, DIES OF DIPHTHERIA

Diphtheria took the life of a 15-year-old Franklin township girl today, marking the first death due to that disease in Richland county in five years.

Dr. Fred O. Tonney, city-county health commissioner, said Marjorie Jean Taus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Taus, died this morning after an illness of four days. She was a freshman at Union Rural high school.

The commissioner said that the death points up once again the urgent need for immunization of all county school children against diphtheria.

In Mansfield last year, where immunization is compulsory, there were only four cases of diphtheria, he reported. In the county, where immunization is required only in Bellville, there were 16 cases.

* * *

Three Cases In County.

So far this year there have been three cases and one death in the county and no cases in the city.

Citing an unexpected outbreak of the disease in various parts of the country, Dr. Tonney urged parents of children under 12 to have them immunized immediately. Many deaths have been recorded in the United States, he said.

Carrying on a campaign launched by a former commissioner, Dr. Tonney said he had recommended to the county board of health that it require immunization of all county school children. No action has yet been taken.

He said a similar recommendation was made to the board in 1938. At that time, Bellville was the only community to take action.

* * *

Private Services.

Dr. Tonney attributed the recent outbreak in the United States to a relaxing of immunization regulations and, in some cases, to the return of servicemen from Europe where the disease was particularly fatal last year.

The Taus girl's private funeral will be held tomorrow morning. Besides her parents, she leaves a sister, Shirley Ann, and a half-brother, William Parcell, all at home.

UNION ISSUES PLEA AGAINST RENTAL HIKES

Warning Comes as Landlords Push Demand For Increase at Senate Hearing.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The CIO warned congress today that any increase in rent ceilings will have the "gravest effect upon the present harmonious labor-management negotiations for new contracts.

James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, told the senate banking committee this point "cannot be over-emphasized" in considering legislation for a 15 per cent boost in rent ceilings.

He asked in behalf of six million CIO members that federal rent control be extended for another year "without change."

Speaking for the labor group now negotiating for a new contract in the basic steel industry, Carey said:

"Not only will the removal of controls mean a cut in the real wages of the American workers—and in this sense such an action would markedly affect the present delicate state of the collective bargaining negotiations — but it will bring about a sharp increase in evictions."

Carey made no mention of President Truman's decision overruling an OTC order putting into effect a 10 per cent "across-the-board" increase in rents last week.

* * *

Viewpoints Differ.

But Herbert U. Nelson, vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, told the committee that Mr. Truman's veto was an evasion "for political reasons."

Nelson said that only an across-the-board increase will compensate for landlord losses already suffered.

Carey declared that the immediate effect of a general increase would be to bring "a sharp and sudden increase in the cost of living."

The CIO official said there must be an overall national housing bill and an adequate housing program. He added:

"Until we have such a program, until we are enjoying the fruits of such a program in thousands of new dwelling units, we need the continuation of federal rent control."

Women Turn Thumbs Down On Cuspidors

NEW YORK—(UP)—The cuspidor took its place beside the mustache cup today as a relic of when men ran the country. It was retired from duty by the women.

New York's cleaning women, members of Local 32-J of the Building Employes International Union (AFL) served notice that they would clean no more cuspidors after 5 p. m. today.

Business magnates had the alternative of cleaning their own cuspidors, but the general opinion was that the spittoon would no longer be part of standard New York office furniture.

The board of health decided last November that the city ordinance requiring cuspidors where several persons gathered was out of date. The board repealed it. But men are creatures of habit.

Not so with women. The cleaning women said they were through cleaning cuspidors.

MILLION-DOLLAR ROBBERY ATTEMPT FOILED—Two gunmen were killed, two others captured and three policemen were shot during a spectacular, hour-long gun battle in a Chicago south side currency exchange Saturday night. The gang, led by Danny McGeoghegan, 51, failed in an attempt to get at $1,000,000 in the safe. Above, John Bull, alias John O'Brien, who has served more than 30 years in jail on a murder charge, is subdued by police after his capture with McGeoghegan. McGeoghegan, also an ex-convict, once was sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Ohio Mishaps Kill 11; 5 Mansfielders Hurt

Despite a week-end blizzard and icy roads that made driving hazardous, only minor traffic injuries resulted from a series of traffic mishaps in the Mansfield area. Throughout Ohio, however, 11 persons died in highway accidents.

Three of four persons injured Saturday night were treated and released by Mansfield hospital physicians. A fifth person was hurt in a Sunday accident.

Lester H. Hamman, 44, 399 Overlook road, suffered lacerations of the head and face when his car careened into a pole on Lexington avenue around 7:15 p. m. Sunday. Mansfield police attributed the mishap to a slippery pavement. Hamman was treated at General hospital.

State Highway patrolmen said a traffic snarl on ice-coated U. S. Route 30-N late Saturday caused nine minor mishaps. Three persons were hurt.

Crestline Woman Hurt.

Miss Madelyn Foreman, 22, of Crestline, and Henry A. Bilski, 28, 303 North Main street, Mansfield, suffered loosened and chipped front teeth when Bilski was unable to dodge an on-coming car. Bilski told patrolmen the on-coming car side-swiped his car but failed to stop as his car ran into the ditch. The mishap occurred at 11 p. m. Saturday, four and a half miles west of Mansfield.

At 8 p. m. two cars, driven by John R. Billingsly, 25, Mansfield, R. D. 4, and Charles W. Sexton jr., 31, of Canton collided. Mrs. Billingsly, wife of the driver, suffered a knee injury. The mishap occurred three and a half miles east of Mansfield.

Taxi In Crash.

Robert L. Baker, 45, 266 Park avenue east, a passenger in a Service taxi cab driven by Philip B. Sims, 31, 19 Bentley avenue, suffered bruises of the head and an aggravation of an old eye injury about 6 p. m. Saturday in a collision with a car, driven by Earl G. Smith, 60, Mansfield, R. D. 4. Baker's injuries were dressed at General hospital.

State patrolmen said Smith was turning into his driveway in front of the taxi and that the taxi driver was unable to stop on the ice. Baker was treated and released at the Mansfield Sanitarium hospital.

Accidents elsewhere in Ohio caused the following deaths:

Lawrence Lechman, 36, of Lindsey, and his three-year-old daughter, Janice, fatally injured in a three-car collision near Fremont; William Cruitt, 45, killed near Chillicothe; James Murphy, 84, in Tiffin; John Imes, 62, in Columbus; Albert H. Wilhelm in Cincinnati; Gruna Hune, 80, in Kenton; William Kosier, 73, in Cleveland; Mrs. Isabelle Trendel, 29, in Toledo; Gus Reynolds, 29, in Massillon; and Lowell Schmunk, 13, in Defiance.

BARUCH WARM TO LILIENTHAL

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Bernard Baruch today called David Lilienthal a man of "prodigious energy and driving force" and said he is "well qualified" to head the vitally-important atomic energy commission.

The gray-haired author of the plan for world controlled atomic energy appeared before congressional atomic committee senators considering President Truman's appointees to the commission.

Baruch said he was personally acquainted with and endorsed three of the appointees—Lilienthal Dr. Robert F. Bacher and Admiral Lewis Straus.

Baruch said the three are well-qualified.

COAL LACK CLOSES BRITISH CAR FIRM

LONDON — (AP) — The Austin Motor company, a leading export concern, announced today its Birmingham plant would close tomorrow because of the critical coal shortage and that at least 15,000 of its 17,000 employes would be laid off.

The slack yield from the coal mines, recently socialized by the labor government, also forced 140 West Riding industrial firms, mostly in the textile trade and employing about 30,000 persons, to slow operations to three or four days this week.

KRUG FAVORS RIVER SEAWAY

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The interior department indorsed the controversial St. Lawrence seaway project today.

Interior Secretary Krug, in his first annual report to President Truman, estimated the productive hydroelectric capacity of the seaway ot 13,200,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of low-cost energy for the United States and Canada, and said:

"If the whole production of the project were assumed to cut into future coal markets, which would not be the case, it would displace only 8,580,000 tons."

Krug's report quoted Undersecretary Oscar L. Chapman as saying:

"It is the hope of the interior department that new processes can be developed to bring into production low-grade domestic ores. Otherwise, large mining sections of this nation will shut down.

"We have no desire to hasten the increase of foreign minerals except in the form of stockpiles of critical and strategic minerals for security purposes At the same time, we find it desirable to have sufficient foreign imports to allow our manufacturing industry to produce fully.

"The St. Lawrence seaway and the power plant attached to it become important in this depletion picture. Whenever we are forced to go on an increased import basis, the whole metal fabricating industry of the lake area will suffer a slow but profound shock."

Mercury Hits 83 Below Zero

SNAG AIRFIELD, Yukon—(UP)—It was 83 degrees below zero here today but the 16 white men at this weather station noticed little change in temperature from yesterday when the official reading was -81.

The mark was a new low for any place on the North American continent. Snag is 300 miles north of Whitehorse. It is used as a weather station by the RCAF and the department of transport.

TRUMAN URGES EXTENSION OF WARTIME BILL

Measure Would Give Year's Life to Sugar Rationing, Food Allocation.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman today asked congress for "limited" extension of the second war powers act, including his authority to ration sugar and allocate scarce foods and a handful of materials.

Though he named only a few items, he left a big field for White House discretion by seeking the power to restrict other materials in case of "a national emergency that we do not now foresee"—such as a coal strike.

Pleading for "immediate and favorable action on Capitol Hill, Mr. Truman asked a one-year extension beyond March 31 for three sections of the act. The major one, Title III, carries the sweeping power of priority and allocation and of export and import control.

Under it, Mr. Truman asked continued authority over these items:

Foods—Grain, rice, sugar and related products; export and import control only over fats and oils; import controls only over meat, dairy and meat products, peas and beans, canned fish and protein foods.

Imported Materials — Rubber, tin, antimony, cinchona bark and alkaloids, manila and agave fibre.

U. S. Products — Automobiles and tractors (quota limits on export); freight cars; the drug streptomycin.

Mr. Truman did not ask extension of inventory control, the government's warfare weapon against hoarding and a reconversion weapon against the "withholding" of goods from market.

The two other "titles" of the act which should be retained, said Mr. Truman's mesage, are those which (1) allow the maritime commission to run shipping lines and (2) permit the operation of ships with less crew and equipment than in ordinary times of peace.

* * *

Wants Quick Action.

"It is unsettling, both for business and for the general public, to be obliged to wait until the last possible moment for decision by the congress on emergency legislation," Mr. Truman said.

"I urge the congress to give immediate and favorable consideration to the limited extension of the second war powers act I have requested."

He reported that "we can now foresee the day when no further use of these powers will be necessary," but said the "effective completion" of reconversion demands the continued use of the powers set forth.

All foods now controlled by the

COURT UPHOLDS DEATH PENALTY

JERUSALEM—(AP)—The Jerusalem supreme court rejected today a plea for an order staying the execution of Dov Bela Gruner, Irgun Zvai Leumi member for whose life the underground organization kidnaped and later released a British judge and banker.

The ruling, which all quarters believed shattered any hope that Gruner would escape the hangman's rope, came as British authorities hastened the evacuation of British civilians preliminary to the adoption of strong measures to restore order.

A Tel Aviv attorney asked the court for an order staying Gruner's execution for complicity in an attack on a Remat Gan police station. The court rejected the plea, ruling the death sentence was passed by a military court and confirmed by the highest military officer, Gen. Sir Elelyn Barker.

Hoover Starts On 3rd Food Mission

NEW YORK — (UP) — Herbert Hoover, former president, was en route to Europe today on his third post-war food mission.

This time Hoover will study methods of enabling the Germans and Austrians in the Anglo-American zones of occupation to raise more food for themselves.

Adm. Marc Mitscher, Wartime Scourge of Japs, Dies

NORFOLK, Va.—(AP)—Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, died at the Norfolk Naval Station hospital early today of coronary thrombosis.

The wartime boss of famed Task Force 58 which played havoc with the Japanese, died in his sleep at 1:20 a. m. He was admitted to the hospital after suffering a heart attack on his 60th birthday last Sunday.

Mitscher entered the hospital last week for what a fleet spokesman said would be a "complete and thorough checkup." On Jan. 28 the fleet spokesman described the admiral's condition as "very good."

On Friday, Capt. L. E. Mueller, surgeon of the Atlantic fleet, described Mitchher's condition as not serious and said that Capt. Cecil Andrews, a heart specialist at the Naval hospital at Bethesda, Md., came to Norfolk for consultation and concurred in the diagnosis of the admiral's ailment as a heart attack.

Determined Fighter.

Mitscher, soft-spoken but a hard-hitting, determined fighting man, had a personal hand in many spectacular and important actions against the enemy in the Pacific and his admirers claimed that he put tempo of the war against Japan into high gear with his Task Force 58's first carrier blows at Truk and the Marianas in February of 1944.

ADM. MARC MITSCHER

In those attacks the navy tested its newly-built carrier power for the first time against strong Japanese strongholds and exploded the myth of their invincibility.

Mitcher's swift marauding task force had the entire Pacific ocean to the gates of Japan as its stamping ground and his carrier planes smashed vital enemy aircraft plants and chased the Japanese air force to cover while pounding at Tokyo and vicinity early in 1945.

Commanded Hornet.

He was the skipper of the aircraft carrier Hornet, the "Shangri-La" from which Lt. Col. (later Lt. Gen.) James Doolittle launched his Mitchell bombers for the raid on Tokyo and four other Japanese cities April 18, 1942.

From April 1 to July 25, 1943, the period when army, navy and marine fliers won air supremacy in the South Pacific, Mitscher was commander of aircraft in the Solomon Islands.

He became a vice admiral March 21, 1944.

ASH, GARBAGE SERVICE COST AVERAGES $13

Lingafelter Sets Up Prices Under New System.

The official "price list" for Mansfield's new garbage-ash-trash program was outlined today by Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the sewer-water-garbage department.

For the average family the cost will run about $6.60 for six months or $13.20 a year for the complete garbage-ash-trash service.

Payments for service under the new system will be received at the city building garbage office beginning tomorrow. Deadline for payment is Feb. 10.

* * *

Prices Outlined.

Prices as outlined by Lingafelter and authorized by city council include:

Garbage service for six months, $3.60; for one year, $7.20.

Garbage and ash-trash service for six months, $6.60; for one year, $13.20. Only non-burnable trash will be accepted.

Garbage and trash service for six months, $5.10; for one year, $10.20. Under the later service, no ashes or cinders will be collected and only 150 pounds per month of trash will be allowed. The service is designed for homes heated with gas or oil.

To be eligible for either the ash or trash service, or a combination of the two, a customer must first subscribe to the garbage service.

Payments for all services are to be made on a semi-annual or annual basis. Following the payment deadline, new route lists are to be compiled and the new service launched around March 1.

Until that time, collections are to be made under the present system which provides for a free ash-trash service about once every six weeks.

* * *

Picks Up Ashes Monthly.

Under the new system, garbage is to be collected once a week, as it is now, but ash-trash service is to be increased to once a month. A price is to be charged for the ash-trash service in an effort to take the city rubbish department out of the red.

For $3.60 a subscriber can have 10 gallons of garbage collected a week for six months; for $6.60 he can have 10 gallons of garbage collected a week and 300 pounds of ashes and trash collected a month for six months.

For $5.10 he can have 10 gallons of garbage collected a week and 150 pounds of trash collected a month for six months.

For the full ash-trash service, nine bushels weighing a total of 300 pounds will be allowed per month. For just the trash service four and one-half bushels weighing a total of 150 pounds will be allowed per month.

Newsmen Start Out To Solve Mystery of 'Headless Valley'

PRINCE GEORGE, B. C.—(AP)—A party of three prepared Saturday to hop off from here in a Junkers pontoon plane for South Nahanni's "Headless Valley," 200 miles northeast of Whitehorse, Y. T.

Headed by Pierre Berton, Vancouver (B. C.) Sun reporter, the party plans to attempt a landing in the valley. "Failing that," Berton said, "we will set our ski-equipped Junkers down as close as possible to the mystery region and mush in by snowshoes."

Other members of the party are Russ Baker, pilot, and Art Jones, Vancouver Sun cameraman.

"We will, if successful in a position to investigate stories of head-hunting 'mountain men,' tropical growth, hot springs, wailing winds and ancient curses, which have continued to wrap the Nahanni in mystery for the last half century.

"We are paying little heed to the tropical legend and are fully equipped for any temperature or any occurrence.

"We expect the expedition may take as long as two weeks and we may be out of touch with the outside world for several days after we check out of Fort Liard.

"It will probably be necessary to spend several days in the area of Headless Valley itself."

Several other parties have announced plans to explore the valley later this year. Headless Valley received its name after two prospectors were found dead, their heads missing.

REDS SAY U. S. LOST IN CHINA

MOSCOW—(AP)—Izvestia declared Saturday that withdrawal of the United States as mediator in China proved American policy in that country was "bankrupt" and only the future would disclose whether the U. S. would try some new form of "interference" in China's internal affairs.

It was the first comment in the official government newspaper on the United States' action, announced in Washington Wednesday by Gen. George C. Marshall, who headed the American efforts in China before becoming U. S. secretary of state.

Izvestia charged the year-long attempts of the United States to resolve differences between the Communists and Gen. Chiang Kai-shek did not constitute mediation but was only a "disguise" for interference in Chinese internal affairs.

The newspaper said the United States placed its bet on reactionary circles in the Kuomintang, the National government party; neglected changes which have taken place in recent years in Chinese public opinion, and ignored "the fact that unification of China is possible only on a democratic basis."

Car Makers Still Hold Big Backlog of Orders

By DAVID J. WILKIE
(AP Automotive Editor)

DETROIT—(AP)—The nation's automobile industry has been back in peacetime production for 19 months and has assembled fewer than 2,500,000 passenger vehicles. Had operations come up to expectations there now would be something like 4,500,000 new cars on the highways.

The postwar production achievement, disappointing to the car manufacturers as well as the motoring public, would seem to dispose of the frequently heard observation that actual demand has begun to taper off. The steadily mounting accumulation of orders in the lower-price bracket—larger than ever before in the industry's history—may be due in some degree to a shifting from the medium-priced field.

Prices Cause Shift.

Certainly current prices, up in some instances as much as 40 per cent over the 1940 levels, have cooled the immediate postwar enthusiasm of many thousands of would-be car buyers. Generally, however, the tendency has been to seek new cars in the lower cost brackets rather than to abandon buying plans outright.

Apparently there are no price cuts in sight "across the board." The recent Ford reductions were confined to the Ford line alone. No changes were made in the Mercury and Lincoln models and the larger of the $15 to $50 cuts were made in the six cylinder units.

Some industry quarters have speculated that if the Ford cut did not inspire similar reductions elsewhere it may at least have discouraged some increases.

Quota System Used.

Each car retailer still is getting only a percentage of the total number of cars he sold in the immediate pre-war years. This quota system of deliveries is not likely to be changed until the factories are at nearly twice their current production level.

The industry-wide backlog of unfilled orders still is conservatively estimated at 5,000,000 units. Perhaps 70 per cent of the total is represented in the accumulation on the books of Chevrolet, Ford, Plymouth, Nash and Studebaker.

THE ARMY OF DREAD

When to contempt of size inclined
The mighty atom keep in mind.
—Old Mother Nature.

Kitty the Catbird, who until this year had spent his winters in Central America, the land-of-always-summer to the feathered folk who go down there to spend the months of cold weather in the North, had been telling Peter Rabbit about the Jungle and some of the folks who live in it. It was all so strange that Peter was having hard work to believe all he had been told. He was trying to believe, but you know how it is when you are told of things you have never even dreamed could be. Sometimes they seem just too strange for belief. Kitty had told Peter that in the Jungle lived Ant people of whom even the largest Jungle folks were afraid.

"They must be great, great, big Ants!" cried Peter.

Kitty shook his head. "You might call them big as Ants go, but I have seen bigger ones. They certainly are not great, great, big Ants. It isn't their size that makes other folks afraid of them," said he.

"Then what is it?" demanded Peter.

"It is their numbers," explained Kitty.

"Pooh!" exclaimed Peter. "There couldn't be enough Ants together for really big folks to be afraid of them. There just couldn't be that many"

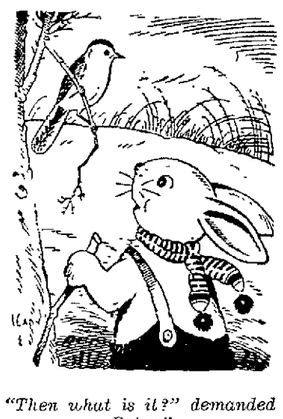
"Have you forgotten those caterpillars?" asked Kitty.

"What caterpillars?" Peter asked.

"The caterpillars that one summer drove you and Mrs. Peter out of the dear Old Briar Patch and ate it bare of everything green, and a big part of the Green Meadows just as bare. Don't tell me you have forgotten that!" cried Kitty.

Peter hadn't forgotten. He never could forget that visit of the Army Worms as they were called because they had moved across the land like a great army, eating every green thing in their path so that the ground behind them was as bare as if not a blade of grass or the tiniest plant had ever grown there. No, Peter never could forget that army of caterpillars that made it seem as if the very earth itself had come to life and was crawling and eating. He said so.

"Supposing those caterpillars had been Ants, and that instead of eating green things they had been hunting for, and eating, any other living things they could find. If you had happened to be in their path how long do you think it would have taken them to eat you so that only your bare bones would be left? Just a few minutes. That is the very way those Ants in the Jungle travel and live, so many together that no one they catch can escape no matter how big they may be," said Kitty.



"Then what is it?" demanded Peter.

Peter shivered at the thought. It wasn't pleasant to think of such things. "Don't they eat anything but—but—" He hesitated. He didn't know just how to say it.

"Just meat," said Kitty. "They are hunters, and they eat any one they can find from the smallest insect to the biggest person in fur or feathers they can catch. That is why they have to travel about so much. They must keep together so that no matter how big and strong and fierce may be one whom they catch there can be no escape from them. Every one who knows in time that they are coming gets out of their way in a hurry. But people don't always know in time. Nothing stops them. If they come to a house built by Man they go right into and through it and he gets out. He leaves in a hurry. When he returns after they have left there is no living thing there, not a fly, not an insect of any kind, not a Rat, not a Mouse."

"They can't be moving along all the time. Where are their homes in which they rest?" asked Peter.

"That is the strangest thing of all. They make themselves into a great ball, a sort of living house, the wall made wholly of themselves clinging together. There are rooms and passages just as in the homes of other Ants, and the eggs and the babies are taken care of just as those in other Ant houses are."

"I don't believe that," declared Peter Rabbit.

"I won't tell you anything more," said Kitty the Catbird indignantly. You see what he had told Peter was true. Because they are like a great army those fierce Ants are called Army Ants.

FANS GET BREAK AT STATE CAGE TOURNEY

OUTDOORS
With McGinty

(Editor's Note: Following is the first of two articles on what can be done to curb juvenile delinquency. Today's article is on hunting and fishing, by Hal Wood, UP sports writer. Tomorrow: Fishing.)

* * *

SONOMA, Cal.—(UP)—An out-of-doors program whereby every 'teen age youngster in America learned to fish and hunt would completely solve the juvenile delinquency in the country, Gen. H. H. (Hap) Arnold, chief of the U. S. Army Air Forces during the war, said today.

Adding a word to the mounting battle that the nation's sportsmen are mapping against the increased juvenile delinquency, Arnold told the United Press that it was the best program he could think of to aid the country's youngsters.

"It would be the best thing in the world for the youth of the nation," said Arnold, "if they could get out into the open and learn to hunt and fish.

"This not only would take them off the streets, but would give them a fresh viewpoint on life.

"I've never yet met a man who lived in the forest who wasn't clean-cut. Take your game wardens, foresters, etc. Did you ever meet one that wasn't the picture of manhood, with a clean mind and body?"

* * *

GEN. ARNOLD, now a member of the California fish and game commission, is an ardent outdoorman himself. He lives here in wooded Sonoma county where he can follow his favorite pasttimes of fishing and hunting—and his ruddy cheeks and the famous twinkle in his eyes indicate his fine health.

"I have no program arranged in my own mind," said the general, "there could be one mapped that would send every lad in the nation into the woods for a while each summer, I'm sure it would solve the situation.

"The present boys' summer camps are fine—but they take only a few off the streets. These camps take only a very minute percentage. What we need is some program that would send every last boy out to introduce him to nature every year."

Such a program, Arnold asserted, would be very costly and it would take the cooperation of all branches of outdoor clubs in the country, but it would pay dividends in the long run.

"If any person can propose a sound program that would turn this trick," says the general, "I would be the first to lend my support.

"We never had the current wild juvenile delinquency after the first World war—and I can believe the only cause of it this time is the increased crowding of youngsters together in the large cities, where they have to get their outdoor activities on the streets in front of their homes.

"Get the children out into the open country during the summer vacation and we soon would note a tendency toward return to normal," the general concluded.

Dodds Is King Of Mile Racers

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Galloping Gil Dodds' decision to forsake the mile run in favor of longer distances after his next race appeared today the only relief for the rest of the nation's milers, who were run into the boards for the second straight weekend at the Millrose A. A.'s Wanamaker Mile at Madison Square Garden on Saturday night.

Dodds demonstrated that he was in a class by himself by pacing off a 4:09.2 in the Wanamaker event to win by 40 yards.

The fleet-footed parson's convincing victory against Tommy Quinn, Ed Walsh of Manhattan, Rune Gustaffsson of Sweden and Leslie MacMitchell, 1946's indoor mile king, respectively indicated clearly that none of this year's crop of competitors had much of a chance of catching him.

Unless he changes his mind, Dodds' last chance of lowering his world record of 4:06.4 set in 1944 will come in the Hunter Mile at the Boston A. A. games next Saturday night. After that, the wiry, bespectacled preacher plans to specialize in the two-and three-mile events for the rest of the indoor season.

COMPETITION RETURNS TO CAPITAL CITY

Four Teams Represent Each Class at Columbus.

By JOHN G. DIETRICH
UP SPORTS WRITER

COLUMBUS — (UP) — A brand new setup for the state high school basketball tournament, designed to allow the maximum number of spectators and to avoid playing of two games in one day by a single team was announced here today by the Ohio High School Athletic association.

This year's class A and class B tournaments both will be played at the state fairgrounds coliseum for the first time since 1941.

The tournament, crowning event of the athletic year for some 1,500 Ohio high schools, will extend over a three day period, March 20, 21 and 22. One class B game will be played in the afternoon and one class A game in the evening of each day.

Four Teams.

Four teams in each class will come to Columbus. The tournament will open with the first class B semi-final at 2:30 p. m. Thursday, March 20.

The first class A semi-final game will be played at 8 p. m. Thursday. The other semi-final games will be played off on the same basis Friday, and Saturday the championship games will take place, again with class B in the afternoon, class A at night.

Tickets will be sold in advance through the competing schools only. They will be reserved by section and not by seat.

Sale of tickets to the general public will take place at the coliseum only, starting at 9 a. m. each day, with tickets sold only for that day.

Each high school in the state, whether competing in the state tournament or not, will be allowed free tickets for ten players, one faculty manager, a coach and five other persons.

Bands will be admitted only when their own team is playing, and five cheerleaders in uniform will be admitted from each school when its own team is playing.

The ticket prices were set at $1.50 for reserved arena seats and 75 cents for general admission. The reserved arena seats will not be distributed to the schools, because there are not enough of them.

Tournament drawings will be held at the OHSAA office in Columbus at 10:30 a. m. Monday, March 17.

Tourney Sites.

The board of control also announced dates and sites for the regional tournaments.

The southeastern region will hold its class A tournament in the Muskingum college gym at New Concord, while the class B regional site will be Ohio university gym at Athens.

The southwest regional will be held at Dayton and Springfield, for class A and B respectively.

In the northeast, both A and B regionals will be played at Kent State university, and in the northwest both classes will play at Bowling Green State university.

All regional tournaments will be held the week-end of March 15. In regions where the classes are divided, the tournaments probably will cover Friday and Saturday, while at Kent and Bowling Green some games probably will be played Thursday, March 13.

Gridders Davis, Blanchard Expect To Stay In Army

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)—Take it from Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis themselves—they're staying in the Army.

The West Point touchdown twins whose combined gridiron talents stirred many a rousing cheer, got together in Philadelphia over the weekend on a statement to throttle the hue and cry of speculation about their future.

From the home of a mutual main line friend, they gave Philadelphia sportswriters a joint announcement. It said:

"At no time have we entertained thoughts of abandoning our careers in the army.

"We had no thought whatsoever of resigning when we applied for a furlough. Football was and is incidental oot uramry 5sBa is incidental to our army careers.

"The incident is closed and our army careers go on as originally planned."

Badgers Face Crucial Game

CHICAGO —(INS)— Wisconsin's Badgers must win tonight's game over Iowa at Madison, Wis., if they wish to retain their leadership in the Western Conference Basketball circuit.

The only other Big Nine game tonight is Michigan's contest at Ann Arbor, Mich., with Indiana's Hoosiers.

Wisconsin Favored.

Wisconsin is favored to win over the Hawkeyes, who were badly handicapped almost on the eve of the game by the ineligibility of their star center, Noble Jorgensen. Jorgensen paced the Hawk attack in six conference games this season with 69 points.

Should Wisconsin lost tonight, Michigan will take over the lead in the conference if it wins over Indiana.

In Saturday night's games, the Illinois Whiz Kids took a 59 to 58 thriller from Ohio State at Columbus, while at Minneapolis, Minnesota defeated Northwestern in overtime, 63 to 61.

Jim McIntyre, Minnesota ace, enjoyed a big night, as he went into the confernce individual scoring lead with 96 points. McIntyre tied the Gopher fieldhouse point record and registered the conference's best single-game total this season when he sank 30 points.

Capital and Mt. Union Pace Ohio Colleges

By JOHN BARRINGTON, INS Sports Writer.

A week of decision loomed today in both the Ohio conference and the race for statewide collegiate basketball honors.

Capital and Mt. Union are deadlocked with nine wins and two defeats apiece against all comers. In the conference, Baldwin-Wallace is setting a fast pace with five straight victories.

The schedule gives Mt. Union a golden opportunity to break the deadlock. While Capital's lone game of the week is a Thursday event at Muskingum, the Mounties play Hiram tomorrow and Wooster Saturday.

Baldwin-Wallace faces a rugged week, meeting Toledo tomorrow, John Carroll on Friday and Xavier in a non-league tilt Saturday.

Team Woods Full.

Should the Yellow Jackets falter, the woods is full of teams ready to step into the conference lead.

Capital has eight triumphs and one loss in the circuit. Other once beaten teams are Akron with six wins and Findlay with four. Muskingum has a 7-2 mark while Mt. Union stands at 6-2 in the conference.

In addition to the important Capital - Muskingum meeting, conference contending teams feature Akron's contest at Kent State and Findlay's home appearance against Heidelberg. Both are Thursday games.

Both Capital and Mt. Union racked up crucial conference wins Saturday. The Lutherans faltered in the second half but outlasted Marietta, 55 to 51. Mt. Union handed Muskingum its second league defeat, 65 to 46.

Meanwhile, Baldwin - Wallace avenged an earlier non-conference loss to Ohio Wesleyan by thumping the Bishops, 66 to 48.

Saturday Games.

In other Saturday games, Kent State edged Western Reserve, 44 to 42; Cedarville drubbed Bliss, 65 to 37; Oberlin was a 59-46 conqueror of Carnegie Tech; Toledo whipped Xavier, 47 to 37; Wooster trounced Wabash, 60 to 49, and Denison won its second game of the year as Newark Fibergals fell, 37 to 36.

Bowling Green wound up third in the Chicago round robin tournament. The Falcons whipped Depaul, 59 to 47, in the consolation final.

Cincinnati receives an opportunity to improve its runner-up position in the Mid-American conference this week. The Bearcats play Wayne tomorrow and Ohio University Saturday. Butler, undefeated in league play, has no conference games scheduled.

Only two games are listed tonight. Ohio Wesleyan travels to Muskingum while John Carroll meets Gannon.

N-O Loop 5's Play 11 Games

SHELBY—Northern Ohio league cage teams will play in 11 games during the coming week including only two official league tilts.

Red Hot Barons Lead Puck League

It's Cleveland today — once again all alone at the head of the American hockey league.

The red-hot Barons added a pair of weekend notches to their hockey sticks and pulled two points ahead of their nearest rival for league honors and six points in front of the Western division pack.

Cleveland garnered a 4-2 victory oven New Haven Saturday night at the Cleveland Arena, and returned Sunday afternoon to take a 7-5 decision from Philadelphia's lowly Rockets.

Mansfield Bowlers Take Tourney Doubles Lead

Dot Crowhurst and Kitty Trelease grabbed the doubles lead in the Women's Inter-city bowling tournament with a 1226 at the Colony alleys yesterday afternoon.

The Mansfield bowlers outscored Frances Becker and Beulah Perkins of Mt. Vernon by 80 pins. The Mt. Vernon pair bowled 1148.

Miss Becker gained the singles lead with a 617. Helen Roseman of Sandusky hit a 608 for second place while a Kenton kegler, Marge Liles took third position with 602.

Augusta Wangler and Mrs. Roseman notched an 1137 score for third place honors in the doubles.

Helen Wilhelm of Mansfield moved into fourth place in the singles with 592. Other Mansfield bowlers to finish in the first 15 in singles were: Harriet Ferbrache, ninth, 583; Mrs. Trelease, 10th, 570; Christine Au, 11th, 563; and Estella Keck, 12th, 557.

In the doubles, Thelma Hodgson and Gerry Merryman, Mansfield, captured sixth with 1089, while Effa Hayne, Mansfield, paired with Evelyn Balmer, Findlay to take seventh with 1084.

Mrs. Trelease and Mrs. Wilhelm rolled individual scores with 244 and 242, respectively. In the all events Mrs. Trelease finished second to Mrs. Roseman with 1520. Mrs. Roseman had 1585.

The Crowhurst-Trelease doubles combination rolled 448 for the high double game. Ruth Presnell and Euice Kahlo of Findlay had 400.

The Women's Inter-City Bowling association held an election of officers and Mary McMullen and Gerry Merryman of Mansfield were voted into the vice presidency and sergeant of arms posts. Other officers reelected were: Edna Schnurr, Sandusky, president; Cleone Walters, Findlay, secretary; and Hazel Clapsaddle, Marion, treasurer.

The tourney will swing into action next Saturday with team events and the doubles and singles participants will bowl Sunday.

Demaret Wins Tucson Open With 264 Card

TUCSON, Ariz. —(U.P.)— Jimmy Demaret was the major topic in 19th hole discussions today by those who saw the Ojai, Calif., golfer card a 72-hole 264 yesterday to win the $10,000 Tucson open for the second consecutive year and break the course record by four strokes.

Leading Ben Hogan by a one-stroke margin at the turn, Demaret scorched the back nine in 32 strokes to card a five-under par 65 in the final round and leave the Hershey, Pa., pro with second-place money.

Hogan finished with a 267.

Jim Ferrier of Chicago finished one stroke behind Hogan with a 268. John Barnum of Chicago topped the amateur division with a 280 total.

Herman Keiser of Akron, O., who led after the first 36 holes; Jack Hardin, El Paso, Tex., and Jim Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., were tied for fourth place.

Cuemen Meet Beverage Five

The Smokehouse-Richland Beverage game headlines play in the City A league at the Senior high gym tonight. Both teams are tied with Komito's Clothiers for first place in the first division. Each team has won six games with one setback.

In an exhibition game earlier this year the Cuemen topped the Beverage five 33 to 29. Tonight's three game schedule will be the only city loop contests this week, due to the John Simpson-Johnny Appleseed classic at the Senior high gym Wednesday night.

The two first division leaders will collide in the second tilt.

Mansfield Tire is favored to capture its fourth loop victory over the American Veterans Committee in the opening tussle at 7 p. m. The up and coming Tiremen stopped Urschel Insurance 40 to 28 last week.

Urschel cagers remain idle this week but are tied for the top spot in the second division with five wins and three defeats.

Komito's will be seeking its seventh verdict over Yunckers Sports. The Yuncker team is in third position in the second division with four wins and three losses.

The Komito-Yuncker scrap concludes city league play for the remainder of the week.

Varieties Annex Third Loop Victory

Varieties cage team maintained its undefeated record in the Fly by Day league in the intramural league at the Senior high school by annexing the Grease Monkeys 54 to 24. It was the Varieties' third victory.

The Jolly Gents turned back the Apostles 37 to 21 in the second game giving the Gents a two and one record. The Apostles have lost two out of three while the Monkeys have lost three straight.

Baseball Movies

Tyger Baseball Coach Jimmy Lymper extended an invitation today to any one interested in seeing the movie of the "World Series of 1946" and the batting stars of the series to be shown tonight in the Choral room on the third floor of the Senior high school at 7 p. m.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

Two young advertising men turned their after-work cocktail hour into a prolonged rendezvous with John Barleycorn. When one of them finally regained consciousness, the sun was shining brightly.

He looked about and discovered that he was lying in a hospital bed and was completely swathed in bandages. His bleary-eyed friend was sitting by the bedside regarding him dolefully.

"What happened to me, Tom?" inquired the stricken one through swollen lips.

"We were sitting there very peaceful-like," explained his friend, "when suddenly you jumped to the ledge of a window on the sixth floor and cried, 'Here's where I fly down Broadway!'"

"Why didn't you stop me?" said the bandagee indignantly.

"Stop you?" was the reply. "I thought you could do it!"

Exodus From Palestine Underway

MOVE BREEDS NEW TENSION IN PALESTINE

Fleet of Planes Will Assist in Speeding Removal of Women, Children.

JERUSALEM —(INS)—The exodus of 2,000 British women and children from the Holy Land was underway today as intra-Jewish strife flared in tension-packed Palestine.

The first group of evacuees was flown from Lydda airport near Jerusalem shortly after midnight. Reliable reports said a fleet of 40 RAF transport planes were to arrive today to continue the airborne phase of the operation.

The fraternal clash between Jews was reported from Tel-Aviv where Irgun Zvai Leumi underground extremists were said to have battled with troops of the Jewish Haganah defense corps.

5 Hurt in Fracas.

Five Jews were listed as injured in the fracas which occurred when Irgun fighters tried to prevent defense corps members from posting appeals to the Jewish population not to contribute funds to the underground.

Earlier, all British persons in Tel Aviv were quitting their houses, shops and industries in the Jewish-built community.

As moderate Jewish organizations renewed appeals to the British not to evacuate women, children and "non-essential" civilians, the secret Irgun radio saluted Dov Gruner, condemned underground agent, whose impending execution precipitated the present crises.

Calls Day of Prayer.

The chief of the Palestine Rabbinate proclaimed today a day of prayer throughout the troubled Holy Land. He called for "divine intercession" for the "dire distress of Jewry."

Mrs. Golda Meyerson, head of the political department of the powerful Jewish agency, appealed again to the British to halt the evacuation measures.

New Cooperation By Labor, Management Raises Coal Peace Hopes

GOVERNMENT HOPES STRIKE WON'T BEGIN

Officials Confident John L. Lewis Will Avoid Walkout Threatened For March 31.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Government hopes rose today for continued peace in the soft coal fields.

Amid signs of a new era of "good feelings" between labor and industry, high officials were confident that the national coal strike threatened by John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers for midnight March 31 would be averted.

But there were two theories on what course events would take.

One official believed Lewis would agree to extend the present government-union contract until June 30, the expiration date of the government's power to hold properties seized in labor disputes.

Sees Return To Owners.

A second official said government optimism for peace in the coal fields was based on a belief that (1) the mines soon can be returned to private ownership and that (2) Lewis will sign a new contract with the mine owners before the March 31 expiration of the present truce.

As evidence that the unpredictable Lewis would "like to settle this time without a strike," this official pointed to a statement signed by the mine boss and other members of the AFL executive council at Miami last week.

It said that "an era of good feeling is setting in on the industrial front," and that "unions and employers are showing a returning confidence in their ability to cope with their mutual problems through peaceful collective bargaining."

Truman Optimistic.

President Truman also reflected government optimism on the strike front when he proclaimed the existence of "a widespread willingness to resolve industrial disputes without resort to force."

Mr. Truman made this statement as he announced a "no strike, no lockout" agreement between contractors and AFL building trades unions for the building construction industry.

Officials also found a sign of increasing good will in the AFL offer to discuss merger with the CIO. The proposal was advanced last week by AFL President William Green in a letter to CIO President Philip Murray.

'KEEP CONTROLS,' TRUMAN URGES

agricultural department would remain under restrictions but inedible molasses, used largely for industrial alcohol, would be freed. Only a few of the materials subject to orders of the civilian production administration would be freed, and many of these controls are dead letters already.

* * *

Controls Shift.

Thus, the iron and steel order would die, but steel allocation is now sparingly used; the uranium order would expire, but the atomic energy commission is authorized to take over atomic energy materials.

Control over building materials (which would continue to June 30 under the act), can be continued until the year-end under the Patman emergency housing act. The chemicals order would be eliminated

Originally the second war powers act contained 14 titles. Seven have lapsed or been turned into permanent laws; the remaining four, which would lapse under today's proposals, are largely inoperative or unneeded.

In seeking blanket powers in time of emergency, Mr. Truman specified that it would be used only "if there is a declaration by the president that such a national emergency has arisen."

Putting food at the top of his must-list for continued controls, the president declared world grain supplies are "still far short of essential needs." Control must be continued to insure shipments to war-devastated nations and to prevent "disease and unrest" in Germany and Japan.

* * *

Sees Sugar Danger.

Unless sugar rationing is continued, he went on, speculators would hoard the supply, industrial users would buy more and cut down on household use, and the country's $1,000,000,000 annual sugar bill "might multiply several times"

The "extremely serious freight car shortage" demands federal allocation of the car-builders' output, he said, and domestic needs may make it necessary to continue limiting the number of automobiles and tractors which each manufacturer makes for export.

FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

No Cause for Worry

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Hold everything, congress. Don't bother about firing 1,000,000 federal job holders. Quit worrying about taxes. Forget the national debt. It's only money, isn't it, that we ain't got?

Hand me down my checkbook. I'm nearly as flabbergasted as the lady in Great Barrington, Mass., who asks me to keep her name out of this.

"I am writing you from my heart," she says. "I have just had a letter from one of my children —a veteran of World War II— who is taking a college course in Chicago. He is being taught not to worry about the public debt and he goes on to say:

"'Mother, I am sending you an article on functional finance which will explain why we don't consider the public debt of paramount importance'."

There you are, Messrs. Taft, Knutson, Taber, et al. Quit bothering your pink noggings about being $259,891,161,209.13 in the red.

* * *

MY CORRESPONDENT admits she's old-fashioned. She sent her son a sizzler.

"It amazes me that anyone should take valuable time to teach people not to worry about the public debt," she wrote. "So far as I can see, an increasing number of people 'just nacherly' don't worry about it. That is understandable, for people never worry about debts unless faced with the immediate necessity of paying them.

"Your father and I would be glad to pay more taxes (and we've certainly sent the federal government a sizeable chunk of our income this year), but we'd like to have confidence that any contribution we make is building character, rather than demoralizing it. Of course this attitude may simply prove that our education is very remiss."

She is none too hopeful of results. One of her problems concerns the fact that her son's education is being financed in part by the G. I. Bill of Rights.

* * *

THE NATION is going still further into debt, the way she figures it, teaching her boy not to worry about it. She added in her note to me:

"I want my children to depend upon themselves first and the government afterwards. I want them to realize that they are the government."

That does it, choppers of the budget. This lady obviously does not know what is what in matters of high finance. She admits it. She is one of those peculiar people who pays her bills when they come due.

She has never asked her congressman, not even in the old days, for a free package of flower seed. She has looked aghast at the skyrocketing cost of government, but she was foregone the coat she has admired in the store window, and paid her taxes without a whimper.

You can make her happy, gentlemen, by paying up a little on the debt, firing a few useless government workers, and going easy on the appropriations. There's only one rub to that.

Do it, and you make her son's professor in Chicago so sore he probably won't pay any taxes at all. Or so she fears.

Bigwigs Changed Tune

AFTER FDR became President many money-bags pleaded with him to rescue their fortunes. And when he licked the depression (and saved their fortunes) the same dollar signs started an anti-Roosevelt barrage that never ceased . . . When Roosevelt heard about the attacks of the well-heeled, he said: "I am not trying to muzzle the upper dog—but I want to get the underdog off a leash."

There was nothing FDR disdpised more than bigots and snobateurs who are always bragging about their ancestry.

He reminded one of them: "You can't choose your ancestors, but that's fair enough. They probably wouldn't have chosen you!"

Roosevelt once mowed down a political opponent with: "He has a one-track mind and it doesn't even go in the right direction!"

FDR expertly guided the Ship of State through the most perilous years of American history. There were times when the future looked dark, but Roosevelt never lost faith. When problems seemed insurmountable and his aides became pessimistic, FDR would perk them up by repeating an observation he had read as a youth: "Some people worry because roses have thorns, while others are grateful that thorns have roses."

There can be no arguing the fact that Roosevelt was the greatest public speaker of all time. Before one of his Fireside Chats, a radio announcer asked him the secret of his oratorical success.

FDR explained: "I learned a long time ago how not to dilute a two-minute idea with a two-hour vocabulary."

Roosevelt's pet anecode was the oldie about the man who, on losing his sight and hearing, visited a doctor to see what was the matter. The doctor told the patient that he could retain his faculties if he would stop drinking. Six months later the doctor passed the man on the street and asked him if he had followed his advice.

"No," the man replied. "After the things I've been seeing and hearing I decided I wouldn't be missing much, so I'd rather drink."

FDR disliked stuffed shirts and tried to steer clear of them. After being bored by one such visitor, Roosevelt cracked: "The reason there is so much humor in the world is because there are so many persons who take themselves seriously!"

After he heard a pompous politico proclaim: "I must run for office. I hear my country calling me," FDR equipped: "He must be a ventriloquist!"

The crack-up of the Demmy Party since his death recalls FDR's shrewd admonition: "Political troubles are multiplied by division!"

As far as we're concerned FDR's most wonderful quipper-snapper was just three names: "Martin, Barton and Fish."

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Alien Wins Favors

MICHAEL JOSEPH DEUTCH, a native of Smolensk, Russia, now 40 years old, has had a remarkable career in the government of the United States. So successful was he in the war administration that Senator E. H. Moore, of Oklahoma, made official inquiries which elicited the fact that he exercised great powers in the board of economic warfare, under Henry Wallace, and the production board during years when he was not a citizen. By another ordinary departure from custom, Mr. Deutch's application for citizenship, filed only last year, was expedited so that he was naturalized in Alexandria, Va., across the river from Washington, only 32 days after it was filed. The process usually takes five years.

A letter from Edward J. Shaughnessy, special assistant to the commissioner of immigration and naturalization, informed Senator Moore that Deutch "was accorded special handling of his petition at the request of Lieut.-Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy military governor for Germany." This letter said General Clay made this request because Deutch's services were needed in Germany, "where he could be sent only as an American citizen.

However, although General Clay's request is said to have been made on Nov. 15, 1945, more than two months elapsed before Deutch filed his application in Alexandria, on Jan. 24, 1946. Senator Moore noted this inconsistency and wrote Mr. Shaughnessy for an explanation. He also asked Mr. Shaughnessy to state what were the special duties that Deutch was to perform in Germany. Senator Moore states that he received no answer to these questions. He was unable to learn whether Deutch ever did go to Germany for any duties after he received special treatment in the naturalization proceedings for that stated purpose. The request for fast handling of the petition might have been promoted from Washington, where Deutch appears to have had powerful political friends in the Roosevelt administration, and sent across General Clay's desk as a matter of routine.

MR. DEUTCH has now left the government service in which he received a maximum salary of $8,750 a year as chief of the planning and statistics division, Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion. He has opened his own office as a consultant in the Union Trust building. The military affairs committee of the house took notice of his career because his rise to power over the American oil industry had aroused some feeling among American producers, refiners and shippers of oil and petroleum products. These American citizens, whose performance in war production was a matter of great pride, held that it was not necessary to employ an alien to direct their job, and some of them thought that Mr. Deutch had expressed hostility to big industry in testimony that he gave before the war investigating committee. The military affairs committee disclosed that Deutch's draft board reported that he was deferred and reclassified repeatedly and never was called into service, although he had requested the board to draft him shortly after Pearl Harbor. He was 34 years old at that time and then engaged in private employment for a Belgian corporation in New York. The Office of War Mobilization gave Senator Moore a long and complex list of Deutch's many jobs in the government which indicates that he first caught on with the government, under Henry Wallace, in the board of economic warfare in September, 1942, on "the engineering staff of warfare analysis making confidential studies on the reoccupation of Europe."

JENKINS CITES 26 HOLDERS OF CLUB PERMITS

50 Others to Face Charges, Says Attorney General.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Atty. Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins today filed charges against 26 holders of private club liquor permits and said that at least 50 more would be cited.

Twenty-one of the licensees being cited today are in Cleveland and two are in Lorain.

Appear Feb. 24.

They must appear before the state liquor control board in Cleveland Feb. 24 and show cause why their permits should not be revoked.

The complaints, prepared by the attorney general in a widespread investigation of licenses issued in December and January, generally allege:

That the permit holders are not bona fide private clubs as required by the liquor laws;

That they have not been in existence for three years;

That false statements were made in the application for a permit;

That the so-called clubs were financed without evidence that the "club" is in debt to the person or persons who put up the money.

SAFETY DRIVE GETS RESULTS, REPORT SHOWS

First progress report in the police department's accident prevention campaign was released today, showing that as arrests went up accidents and injuries went down.

In January nearly twice as many motorists were booked on traffic charges as were booked in December, and accidents dropped from 114 in December to 93 last month. Injuries dropped from 20 in December to 12 last month. There were no fatalities in either month.

Arrests in January for all types of traffic violations totaled 62. In December the total was 34.

Boals Sees Progress.

Traffic Commissioner Frend Boals said that he is "satisfied that we are making progress." He said he feels that the record will improve as the year progresses.

He said that his department's "selective enforcement" program is outlined on a year-around basis and that it's too early to determine any concrete results.

Of the 12 persons injured in accidents last month, Boals said nine were pedestrians. Of four severely injured, three were pedestrians, he said.

Boals said four of the nine pedestrian accidents occurred when pedestrians crossed streets against a traffic signal and one occurred when a pedestrian failed to cross at an intersection.

TAPPAN PLAN AIDS EMPLOYES

A hospital and surgical program, believed to be the first of its kind sponsored by a Mansfield industry, went into effect today for 800 Tappan Stove company employes and their families.

Under the new plan, the company will pay the entire cost of both hospital and surgical treatment for employes and 20 per cent of hospital and surgical expenses for members of participating employes' families. In addition, most of the cost of office and home calls by family physicians will be paid by the company.

The plan will be accepted at any hospital in the United States and Canada with an allowance of 31 days a year for any illness contracted outside of occupation. In the event of occupational disease or accident, benefit is provided by the Ohio Industrial commission.

Company officials said that all employes, regardless of age or seniority, will be eligible for participation in the program.

On Dec. 4, the company announced that $160,000 had been turned over to the Employes' Profit Sharing and Retirement fund, which in the past four years has provided $560,000 for Tappan employes.

The plan is based on the company's net earnings per share before federal taxes on income are deducted. This plan provides greater security for the employe and his family upon retirement or in case of death and provides sick or disability benefits within the limits stated in the plan, company officials said.

GIRL, 16, ESCAPES DETENTION HOME

A 16-year-old girl escaped from the juvenile detention home yesterday afternoon, the sheriff's department reported today.

Held for juvenile court as a delinquent because of repeated school truancy, the girl escaped during church services at the Salvation Army headquarters in which the detention home is located.

She was described as about five feet, two inches tall, having black hair, and wearing dark blue slacks, white jersey sweat shirt, and a tan leather jacket.

PREWITT RESIGNS CHAMBER POST

Joseph Prewitt resigned today as assistant secretary of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce to join the sales department of the Tappan Stove company.

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said no appointment had been made to fill the vacancy.

Prewitt, a navy veteran and De-Pauw university graduate, became assistant secretary of the chamber on Jan. 15, 1946. He is a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, University club, Westbrook Country club, and American Legion.

Married and the father of a small son, Prewitt resides at 522 Cline avenue.

LABOR SAVER—An example of the labor saving ideas which area farmers will see at the Richland county and Ohio Farm and Home Labor Saving show in Mansfield Feb. 14 is demonstrated by Clarence B. Chambers, of Chambers road, near Mansfield. Merely dropping the end of a hose into his 150-gallon collecting tank and throwing switch enables Chambers to pump maple sugar water from a sled into the storage tank above. Emptying one tank formerly required 50 trips up a small ladder, Chambers said. From the storage tank Chambers regulates the gravity flow of the sugar water into the evaporating pans to equal the rate of evaporation.

County March of Dimes Drive Extended To Next Saturday

With the March of Dimes campaign fund still several thousand dollars short of the $6,000 goal in Richland county, campaign officials have decided to continue the present drive through Saturday. Funds so far total $2,300.

Announcement of the extension was made by Atty. W. Harold McClellan, campaign chairman.

Lack of theater funds was given by Atty. McClellan as one of the causes for a shortage in campaign funds this year.

"Last year," he said, "we received about $2,000 from Mansfield theaters. This year our sole contribution from that source was from the Park theater. We received $565 from that theater, more than last year's contribution."

"There are still the contents of the coin boxes distributed in Mansfield and the county and Shelby, from which to derive campaign funds. Usually, we get about $900 from Shelby and about $1,000 from the coin boxes, but even that will not bring up our total to the goal we would like to reach," Atty. McClelland said.

Contributions may still be made to Atty. Marshall C. Moore, campaign treasurer, McClellan said.

COUNTY GETS ROAD CLAIMS

Damage claims totaling $18,294 today were filed with the county commissioners in connection with their proposal to establish a right of way for a new State Route 13 around the eastern edge of Mansfield's municipal airport.

Filed by six property owners, the $18,294 compares with the county engineer's estimate of damages totaling $3,434.

Because actual damage to property over which the highway would pass will vary according to changed gradients and other factors of actual construction, action on the claims was postponed until the state includes the right of way in its system and prepares construction plans.

Property owners over whose land the road would pass, the tax valuation of their land, the engineer's appraisal of actual value, his estimate of damage, and the requested damages include:

Sofia Hoff, $2,300, $4,050, $220 and $4,633; Roy H. Ferguson, $690, $6,784, $389 and $1,000; Arthur Kreuger, $2,170, $8,171, $1,020 and $5,000; Fred Brubach, $7,040, $25,680, $1,584, and $4,750; R. Estep, $2,640, $6,700, $301 and $1,161.

In addition, John M. Hoff, owner of one acre which would not be touched by the roadway, entered a claim for $1,750.

Pledges of free right of way have come from owners of other land, including the state of Ohio (Mansfield reformatory), the city of Mansfield, Russell and Mary Gimbel, and the Richland Shale Brick company.

The commissioners have already approved creation of the right of way and are awaiting an answer from the state highway department on their request that the new road be dedicated as a state highway.

Dr. Ralph E. Harton, acting Richland county coroner, said Cole took his own life about 8:45 a. m. The body was found by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Clay Cole, shortly after the shooting occurred. The weapon was a 32 calibre rifle, Dr. Harton said.

PLAN BACKSQUICK WAR CONVERSION

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The White House is working on a plan to set up a permanent "industrial reserve corps" as a safeguard in event of future war, it was learned today.

Under plans tentatively drafted for President Truman by former Civilian Production administrator John D. Small and others, a small, permanent civilian war resources board would stand ready to mobilize war work on minimum notice.

Key men in industry—organized roughly on the lines of the war production board's industry advisory committee—would be consulted regularly so blueprints for conversion to war production could be kept current. These men would form the "industrial reserve."

Youthful Killers Face Death Charge

YOUNGSTOWN — (U.P.) — Youngstown's two teen-age confessed killers, Don Frohner, 16, and Arthur Chapman, 17, will be arraigned here this morning before Judge David Jenkins of the common pleas court on a charge of first degree murder while attempting robbery.

The youths were indicted one week ago for the hitchhike murder on Jan. 13 of William C. Spieth, 52, Ashtabula, O., salesman. The juvenile court remanded Frohner and Chapman to the grand jury for trials as adults because "of the seriousness of the crime."

Up and Down The Street

VERSATILE SHIP—

Versatility of the helicopter was illustrated to workers at the Mansfield airport over the weekend when one of the ships dropped in at the port after stopping at a farm house near Bellville to ask directions.

Piloted by Joe Mashman, assistant to the chief exerimental pilot for Bell helicopters, the ship needed a repair part and when it was obtained here, Mashman took several of the airport staff members for rides. En route from Knoxville, Tenn., to Buffalo, N. Y., Mashman said he lost his way in southern Ohio and asked directions there before stopping in a surprised farmer's yard near Bellville to learn how to get to Mansfield.

HANDICAPS APLENTY—

County Engineer Walter E. Rusk is holding his breath these days as he attempts to do some of the rural house numbering the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce turned over to him. Since Dec. 15 when he started work, the accurate surveyors speedometer used in the task has broken six times. "But we worked for three consecutive days last week and we hope to be out again today," Rusk reports. The measuring speedometer is needed because one digit is assigned for every 10 feet east and west from State Route 13 and north and south from State Route 30. Rusk says the initial work is aimed at numbering the homes on the county's 18 principal roads. Already numbered are homes on parts of Bowman, Olivesburg, South Main, Millsboro and Park avenue west roads.

Application of the Willard United bank at Willard to alter its quarters at a cost of $17,000 was also approved.

WORKERS TO DECIDE BARGAINING AGENT

A National Labor Relations board hearing on a petition for election of a new collective bargaining unit at the Globe Steel Abrasive company will be held in the Richland county common pleas coutrroom Feb. 19 at 10 a. m., John A. Hull, jr., acting regional attorney of the NLRB, told the News-Journal today.

Present representative for the approximately 26 production workers is Local 169, United Steel Workers (CIO), which has been notified of the hearing, Hull said. Local 169's contract expires Feb. 15.

Hull said the petition for an election was filed by Vernon Dearth, Mansfield, R. D. 1, as president of the Independent Shop Workers union. Hearing on the petition will be conducted by Richard Swander, NLRB hearing officer, Hull reported.

Graziano Draws Ring Suspension

NEW YORK— (INS) —The New York Journal-American said it learned today that the New York State Athletic commission has decided to suspend Rocky Graziano, leading middleweight contender, for a year.

It was said such action will be taken because of Graziano's failure to report a $100,000 bribe offer to "throw" a fight. The commission's postponed hearing of the Graziano case will be held tomorrow.

STATE GROUP REPORTS VETS SPLIT ON PLAN

Council Urges New Ohio Law on Housing at Meeting In Mansfield.

Members of the American Veterans Committee council of Ohio are divided about even on the proposed state veterans' bonus, it was disclosed yesterday at a meeting of representatives of the AVC state council at the Southern hotel in Mansfield.

"We found that 50 percent of AVC members are for the bonus and 50 percent against it," Atty. Joseph Ellison, Mansfield representative to the meeting, said.

In an effort to clarify the situation and give AVC members another chance to express their views, a questionnaire will be submitted to all Ohio AVC chapters within the next 10 days or two weeks, Ellison said.

The questionnaire will include these points:

1. Are you in favor of the bonus regardless of how financed?; 2. Are you opposed to the bonus regardless of how financed?; 3. Are you in favor of the bonus if financed by funds from taxes on the low income group?; 4. Are you in favor of the bonus if obtained through taxes which would hit earners in the higher income brackets?

State To Get Report.

As soon as all returns are in they will be tabulated and the AVC position made clear to the Ohio legislature, Ellison said.

Members also decided yesterday to urge passage of a law which will permit Ohio veterans to benefit from the proposed Wagner-Ellender-Taft federal housing bill.

"At the present time, Ellison said, "the Ohio law will not allow veterans to obtain state or federal funds for housing if they have any money at all."

The AVC also voted yesterday to back the proposed Ohio Urban Development bill which will provide for the clearance of present slum sites and the building of new housing units on the sites. Representatives also reported their individual chapters as in favor of the fair employment practice act.

"Another matter that caused considerable comment yesterday," Ellison said, "was the charge of communism within our ranks. We decided that if we find evidence of communism, we will oust members with communistic leanings from our membership."

PAGE FOUR MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1947

Anyhow, this is a nice time to be thinking about what to plant in your backyard garden.

Rent increases are to be permitted in "hardship" cases—and the extent of "hardships" may become astonishing.

General Eisenhower's idea that "there will be no war because no nation can afford it" doesn't check up with history, as none of the wars have been paid for out of surplus funds.

Remember That 'Occupational Tax'?

IDEAS as to how more tax money can be raised to pay higher city operating costs as wages and salaries of municipal employes are increased, include the suggestion of a reader that an "occupational tax" be considered.

Whether or not this reader's memory of Mansfield carries back as much as 23 years is not disclosed, but recollection of a 1923 venture into an "occupational tax" as a means of meeting a financial emergency of that period is that it proved a "hot potato" for incumbent officials and was largely responsible for the second-term defeat of one of Mansfield's most efficient mayors—Carl H. Stander.

While no tax can be said to be "popular," the occupational tax, as put into effect at that time, hit so directly at the pay of workers that it was greatly resented and remained in effect for only one year.

That, however, was before taxes of all kinds had become so frightfully high as to induce a dazed condition on the part of taxpayers—and there's just a possibility that some modernization of the "occupational tax" might now be as complacently accepted as are the excessive federal income tax and the apparently permanent "temporary" retail sales tax.

Anyhow, it's a thought—and it's going to take some thinking if income from taxation is to be kept up to outgo for municipal operating costs.

Safety Factor In Aviation Progress

THE commerce department at Washington predicts an enormous expansion of air cargo traffic, according to Washington reports. That is, if the air cargo charges are reduced.

But there is obviously another factor to be taken into consideration. That is the factor of safety. It is well known that there have been heavy losses of passenger traffic, as well as cargo traffic, in recent months. Doubtless such difficulties have been largely due to unfavorable winter weather. But this fact itself is one which cannot be waved aside with a flourish and an expectation of better weather as spring approaches.

The kind of assurance required for general safety, and continued expansion of air traffic with reasonable assurance for any kind of weather, is weather in which the birds themselves are willing to fly. At least, that is about what the average ground traveler would say.

Also a high degree of caution on both the personal and mechanical sides is definitely required.

Revival of Bow-and-Arrow Hunting

ALL UNSUSPECTED by the stay-at-homes, a new national sport has edged its way into prominence. This is bow-and-arrow hunting. Ten years ago bows and arrows had only a handful of followers who used the ancient weapons to stalk big game. In 1945 there were 10,000 hunters. In a few years the number will grow to hundreds of thousands, according to one enthusiast, P. J. Hoffmaster, director of conservation in Michigan.

The sport is followed in at least 20 states. One of the most popular areas is Wisconsin's 40,000-acre game refuge in Juneau county. Some states, among them Colorado and Michigan, make special provision for the Robin Hoods, giving them a month more hunting than they give those with guns. In New York's Westchester county, where deer have become too numerous, the bowmen have exclusive hunting privileges, their sport being considered less dangerous to the heavy population than that of fire arms.

It seems a strange enthusiasm, this bow-and-arrow pastime, to have developed on the heels of a war that saw the invention of the deadliest weapons known to mankind. It is an example of the cycle time keeps making and re-making.

Education In Politics Advised

COLLEGE students and professors should learn practical citizenship by running for office. This is a recommendation made to an educational conference at Russell Sage college. The idea is that they will thus learn about their communities and human nature generally in a way that nothing else can teach.

They will find some unexpected obstacles. The politicians of many college towns are opposed to having undergraduates vote, and make it hard for them to prove residence.

On the other hand, professors and instructors should be able to cope with their opponents. Woodrow Wilson, when told that his ignorance of practical politics was going to make his life hard for him, said, "The best preparation for a practical politician is to have had dealings with a university faculty. They are on to all the tricks."

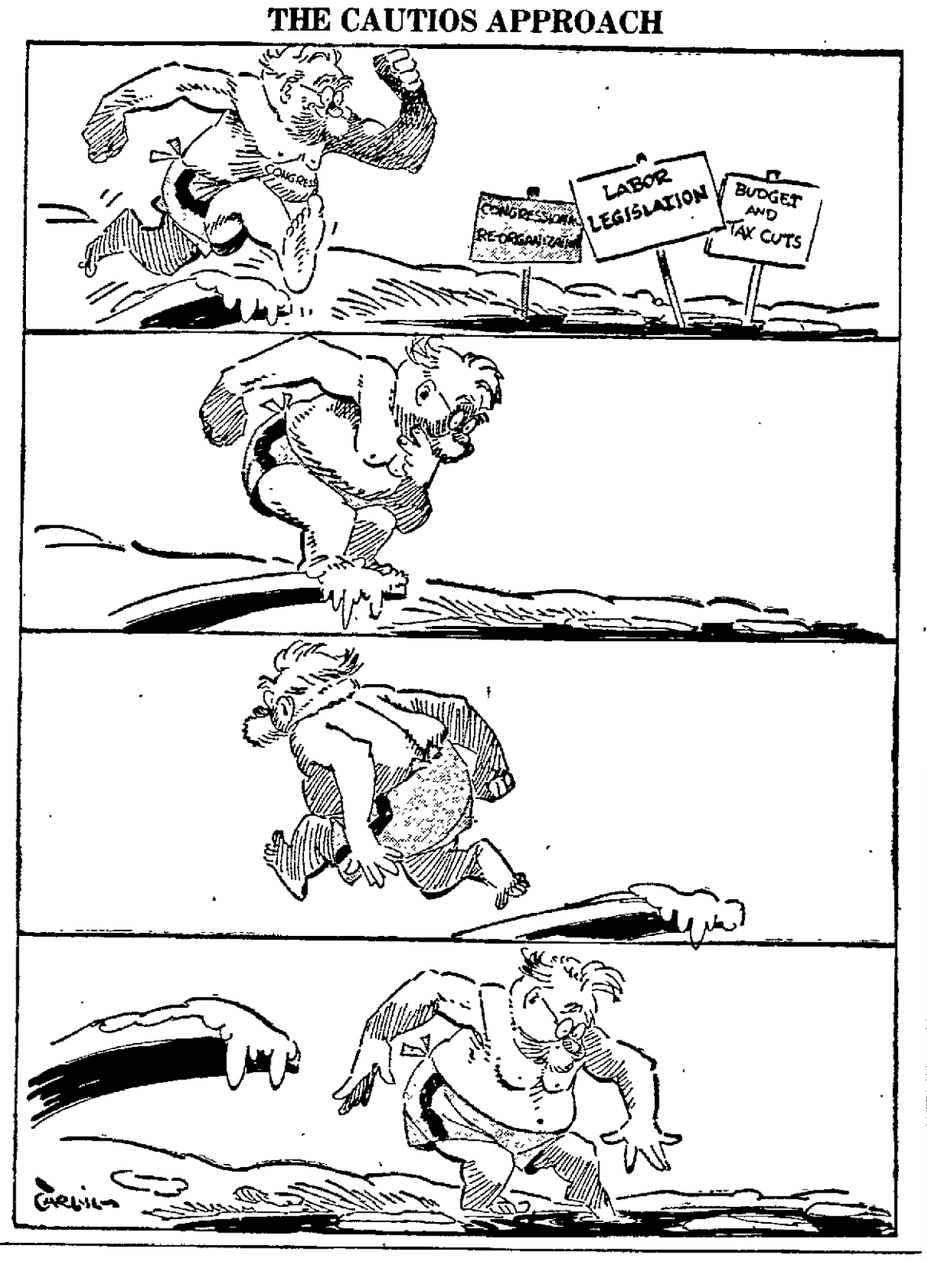
Baseball's Full 'Hall of Fame'

THE ELECTION of Frank Frisch, Lefty Grove, Carl Hubbell and Mike Cochrane to baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., means that about all the spectacular players of the past have now been taken in. The runners-up, who presumably will get in next time, are steady competent players like Gehringer and Traynor. The only non-elected star who was a box-office attraction in his day is Dizzy Dean, and his big league career was too short to make it likely that he will get in very soon.

In short, till a new crop of sensational stars like Bob Feller become eligible, by retiring, elections to the Hall of Fame are likely to be few. For the present, the Hall of Fame is full.

His lawyer now says that Al Capone died penniless—and, anyhow, "you can't take it with you."

THE CAUTIOS APPROACH



How Murray Blocked Rent Jump By a Direct Appeal to Truman

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — There were some very peculiar shenanigans behind the mysterious 10 per cent rent increase which President Truman suddenly killed last week. Inside fact is that the real estate lobby was so close to getting the rent hike approved that the OPA actually had its official announcement mimeographed and ready for release to the press.

Here is the inside story of what happened and how the CIO's canny Phil Murray killed the rent blitz.

At 11 a. m. Murray got a tip from an OPA employe that rents were going to be increased. Immediately he phoned Presidential Reconversion Director John Steelman.

"John, I just learned that the OPA is drafting an order to raise rents 10 per cent through the Office of Temporary Controls," Murray said. "The order is to be released today, effective February 1st."

"That's the first I've heard of it, Phil," replied Steelman. However, he promised to look into it and call Murray back.

Murray had a delegation ready to make a vigorous protest to Steelman but advised them to wait. Meanwhile he confirmed the fact that the order raising rents not only had been drafted, but was completed.

After lunch, having no word from Steelman, Murray dictated a blunt letter to the president, denouncing the rent increase as a violation of Truman's frequently violated agreement to "hold the line" on prices. He asked Truman how labor could be expected not to ask for higher wages and not to strike when landlords scalped the nation's tenants.

As Murray was finishing his letter, he received another call from his OPA informer saying that the order raising rents was about to be mimeographed for release to the press. Immediately he called Steelman again, asked what the presidential assistant had learned.

Steelman said he hadn't been able to confirm the report, also that the president's position was well known as being opposed to any rent increase by the administration, except in hardship cases.

* * *

Steelman Stalls.

"Well, I'm telling you, John, you'd better act on this immediately. I've got a letter here that I'm sending over to the president by messenger. I can assure you that there's going to be an awful lot of trouble for the administration if this thing goes through. I also have a delegation here that wants to see you right away. When can you see them?"

Steelman said he was busy, couldn't see the delegation just then. Murray insisted that the delegation, which represented millions of tenants, had a right to be heard. He accused Steelman of giving him the run-around.

"I just can't see them now, Phil," said Steelman. "I'll call Bob Lamb (the CIO's legislative representative) when I'm free."

"All right, then," replied Murray. "I assume I'm getting the run-around so I'm going to send my letter over to the president immediately."

Murray hung up, let word leak to the press that the 10 per cent rent increase was in the bag. Newsmen immediately queried the White House, which finally brought the matter to the president's direct attention when White House press secretary Charlie Ross laid the news ticker flash on the president's desk. Simultaneously, Murray's letter was placed in front of the chief executive.

At this point Truman hit the ceiling.

"We'll nip this one in the bud," he said and ordered Ross to announce there would be no rent increase unless it was ordered by congress. In a matter of minutes, the White House announcement was on the wires.

When OPA officials saw it, they turned green around the gills, hastily ripped up the order increasing rents 10 per cent, and reversed a previous press announced that a "statement would be available from OPA."

So it was a double play from Murray to Steelman to Truman that blocked the real estate lobby's latest operation.

Army Education.

Public opinion expert George Gallup proved to the last decimal point this week that more men would enlist in the army and navy if military authorities had "a system whereby educational training in the service would count toward high school or college diplomas."

The army's information and education branch was glad to hear that they should educate servicemen, but they want to know one thing: who's going to educate Dr. Gallup?

What he apparently doesn't know is that the United States Armed Forces Institute makes every conceivable type of study course available to any soldier, sailor, marine or coast guardsman who wants it. A total of 1,900,000 men already have acquired schooling via USAFI. Also, they've got credit for it. In the last year alone, 20,000 servicemen received high school diplomas via the army. These diplomas and USAFI's college courses are accepted for credit by almost every school in the country.

Gallup goes on to make the weird statement that army authorities question the idea of the army's going into the business of general education.

Clearly, none of Gallup's scorekeepers asked the secretary of war or power-packed General "Buck" Lanham, head of the army's information and education branch about this. They not only don't question it, but they do it; sending teachers and books and quizzes and lessons by the thousands all over the world.

Lanham is a combat soldier turned schoolteacher, and good at both. He was commander of the 22nd regiment of the famous 4th division, holds decorations up to distinguished service cross and including purple heart.

A dynamic, unpompous brass hat, "Buck" Lanham is as sincere in his drive to give servicemen all the schooling they'll take as he was in his outfit's drive across France. And he has done just exactly what Dr. Gallup doesn't realize is being done—made books help take the curse off bayonets.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Feb. 3, 1927.

Fifteen applications had been received from aspirants for position as superintendent of Richland county home, following resignation of Wade Urich.

"Trusty" who escaped after robbing reformatory safe a year before, was returned to institution, having served prison term in Virginia in the meantime.

Eight girls enrolled for opening of new class in school for nursing at General hospital.

City relief bills for January, totaled $366.25. Mayor Ports reported.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McKean, 112 South Glen avenue.

Seven-year-old Robert Callahan, 638 Bowman street, was injured when struck by truck in front of Bowman school.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Greenfield left on motor trip to Florida.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. Thompson, Bentley street.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

On February 3, 1862, France made an offer to act as mediator between the Northern and Southern forces, and thus help to bring the American Civil war to an early end.

Dave Boone Says:

"BY taking this view Judge Picard reversed the findings of a court examiner. He himself was then reversed by the circuit court of appeals. But the Supreme Court in turn reversed the circuit court," says an explanation in that portal-to-portal litigation. It looks like our courts were operating in reverse.

* * *

And that portal-to-portal issue is still unsettled. With the reverse gear still grinding.

* * *

Gosh! If the courts have so much trouble understanding things and reaching conclusions, how can anybody blame the people for being so befuddled that they're groggy?

* * *

Sometimes I get the silly notion that if all the troublesome issues were left to a Board of Horse Sense the world would have fewer headaches. No matter how simple it is no issue is ever simplified much by modern court decisions.

ADMIRAL KING'S story that the Azores were going to take a dive for us in 1941 is interesting . . . It indicates that the "fix" ante-dates the 1946 sports season.

If Alvin Paris' counsel had known that, he could have pleaded for his client, "he learned his trade at the knee of government."

Plan was for Portugal to throw the islands but moan low with the idea of fooling the Nazis . . . Both the U. S. and Portugal were to retain their professional status as neutrals.

* * *

We didn't get to take the Azores: instead we occupied Iceland by dextrously moving it into our hemisphere . . . A feat which should command the awesome admiration of future geographers.

ODD FACT

The first 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis speedway in 1911, was won at an average speed of 74.59 miles an hour. Thirty-five years later the 1946 winner averaged 114.82 miles an hour.

Dixon Gets Advice From "Potomac Pete."

WASHINGTON—Down on the river from which he gets his name, Potomac Pete sat in his houseboat, surrounded by the wintered-in yachts and yawls, and spat out the open window.

"Newspapermen, huh?" he snorted. "What kind? Are yuh a reporter, an editor or a columnist?"

Regretfully, I admitted that while I preferred being known as a reporter, I probably was tagged with the title of columnist.

"Columnist, huh?" he said. "What's yer percentage?"

"Percentage?" I repeated, puzzled. "What do you mean?"

"What's your percentage on predictions?" Pete barked. "Any columnist worth his salt has to have a high percentage of predictions. If you don't have any yet, you'd better get started—before it's too late." He concluded direly.

Humbly, I asked for suggestions about getting started.

"Well," said Pete ruminatively, "there's nothing like the old tried-and-true methods. At the beginning, only predict those things you're certain of. Then you can't miss.

"F'r instance, now, I'd suggest that you predict that some drastic labor legislation now is under consideration by the new congress and soon will be brought up on the floor. Of course, that's been said, over and over again, by the regular reporters, but if you give it the right hush-hush build-up, and sort of give the impression that you've been behind the scenes, it will sound like you've been right in on the whole deal."

For a moment, Pete sat in silent speculation, chewing steadily.

"Of course," he said suddenly, "to get the proper effect from that sort of prediction, you have to devote at least half of one column to reminding your readers and editors that you predicted it—as soon as any sort of drastic legislation does come up for debate and voting."

Hesitantly, I asked if that's all there was to it.

"Heck, no!" he snorted. "That's only the beginning. In years of reading all the columnists, I've learned that that's what you call the 'expected prediction.' That is, it's so obvious that nobody thinks about just flatly predicting it, so the smart columnist gets the jump on them by doing it.

"Then there's what I call the 'thought - provoking prediction.' That consists of indicating that something almost impossible might happen — and then bravely predicting that it won't. For instance, you could say that despite terrific pressure being brought to bear on President Truman to change the dates of certain national holidays, the chief executive is standing firm.

"Then you could predict that, no matter how strong the pressure gets, Independence day still will fall on the Fourth of July this year . . ."

Pete paused and thoughtfully rubbed his bristling chin.

"I wouldn't advise you to call too much attention to the accuracy of that prediction," he said. "but it will make people think something horrible is going on behind the scenes, and it will increase your readership. On top of that, it will help your prediction percentage over the year's haul. See what I mean?"

Nodding an understanding assent, I asked Pete if there were any other phases of this prediction percentage business.

"Dozens of 'em!" he snapped tersely," "but you stick to the fundamentals, at first. And there's one more fundamental—the positive-negative prediction.

"That's kind of a hidden-ball trick. For instance, you take some controversial bill the president hasn't signed yet, and you predict that Mr. Truman either will sign the measure without a personal qualm, or else will veto it only after the most careful consultations with his cabinet members."

"See what I mean? By phrasing it right, nobody will notice that you're just saying either he will or he won't. Then, whichever he does, you can honestly say you predicted it days in advance!"

Awed by the simplicity of it all, I finally stumbled ashore—completely forgetting that I had come down to ask Pete about the housing shortage on houseboats.

That Morgenthau Diary.

The more we learn about the diary of Henry Morgenthau, jr., with its 900 volumes and 60 million words, the more aghast we are. How could one man, and a supposedly busy man at that, produce so many words? On some days, it is reported, the secretary of the treasury filled 300 pages. Incredible!

There has been considerable comment on the story of that memorable day, which the diary records, when the price of gold was advanced 21 cents by the president and his advisers because, Mr. Roosevelt said, "It's a lucky number." Morgenthau wrote in the diary on that day: "If anybody ever knew how we really set the gold prices through a combination of lucky numbers, etc., I think they would really be frightened."

An understatement. In retrospect we are frightened in reading of the procedure in the diary, and we reflect that Providence must have had its arm around the country or it wouldn't have survived.—Kansas City Star.

Science Has Unleashed Frightful "Thing."

WASHINGTON — This may be a purely personal reaction that properly should be confined to a psychiatrist.

But this one individual, at least, has had a most uncanny feeling as he sat in the crowded committee room where the atomic bomb has been discussed for several days. This is in connection with the inquiry by the senate atomic energy committee into the qualifications of the five men appointed to the atomic energy commission, and its general manager, who have in their keeping the atomic bomb and atomic-energy development.

The committee is using the senate finance committee room. Through the years many of us have sat at the press table there and doodled as we listened to technical discussions about taxes and tariffs. This is different, much different.

The senators sit as usual on a semi-circular dais, like judges, elevated above common mortals. The witness sits down below at a table, the center of the horseshoe. He must look up. As you sit there, you suddenly get the feeling that down there on the table, in front of the suggestive gentlemen who sit there — men connected with the atomic energy commission—is "The Thing," that bomb they talk about. You imagine the senators see it there, too.

You get the impression, as you listen — and this is not meant disrespectfully — that those senators are like primitive men, sitting there, fearfully, looking down at the man who first invented fire—and you feel that about everybody else in the room.

There it is—the secret of the universe. And everybody is frightened by it, and nobody knows what to do with it.

Senators, being practical men, ask practical questions. They seem to speak from way back in the past somewhere, say from the past of two years ago, and that is centuries ago now in reality. For when "The Thing" went off at Hiroshima it blew up one world and introduced us to another. And we might use it to blow up this one, too, "blow us all to hell," as the fellow on the crackerbox would say. It's hard for any of us, including senators, to get away from the past and its symbols and languages.

Senator Johnson (D., Colo.), for instance, wants to know of the 36-year-old gentleman, Carroll L. Wilson, who was appointed general manager for the commission, whether he "had ever met a payroll." He had, for a time, as an official of a private research corporation. (That's the one they used to plague Franklin D. Roosevelt with.

They never say it about his successor, who is not the sort to generate hate among businessmen, but who, himself, met a payroll only briefly.)

The old American standard — business—meeting a payroll. The Colorado senator thought, too, that perhaps we plan to appropriate too much next year for this bomb and atomic energy development, $440 million. Couldn't we economize somewhere?

And Senator Millikin, (R. Colo.) was disturbed that the development of atomic energy for civilian and commercial purposes might not be turned back eventually to private business. (Business as usual for something that should belong to all of us.)

Concern was shown, and properly, that we should have the tightest possible security system to prevent leaks. David Lilienthal, commission chairman, when quizzed about that said the commission was setting up a much more efficient security system than the one provided previously by the military, which he criticized as not sufficient.

During his testimony he used a phrase about the commission "five unfortunate men." So are we all, all humanity, unless we can tear ourselves away from the past.

Big Income Taxpayers Seeking "Relief."

WASHINGTON — A delegation of top-drawer bankers paid a solemn call on Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder recently. After some polite preliminaries, they got down to the real purpose of their mission.

That was to urge on Snyder the need for tax reduction in the upper income brackets. Only in this way, the solemn argument went, would there be sufficient surplus capital for new investment in new plants to create new production.

Included in the delegation were top executives of the American Bankers association, who fix the policy of that potent organization.

While Snyder listened courteously to their argument, he made it perfectly clear that the Truman administration favors tax reduction for the man with a small income rather than for the big taxpayer.

In the house, too, an almost solid Democratic minority has begun to open up on the Republican proposal for a 20 per cent across-the-board tax cut, which would save a lot of money for the big taxpayer and only a little money for the little taxpayer.

Representatives John Dingell, Aime Forand, Herman Eberharter, and other Democratic members of the house ways and means committee, plan to attack Chairman Harold Knutson's tax proposal at every opportunity, as they did in the house the other day.

What is so strange in all this is the way in which history repeats itself. All through the '20s, a Republican secretary of the treasury, the late Andrew W. Mellon, went on the theory that tax reductions in the upper brackets would make for prosperity. The Democrats, led by that tough fighter and shrewd politician, John Nance Garner, insisted on tax reductions for the man with a small income.

The Mellon policy did make for prosperity—for a while. It made for the greatest boom in America's history. And then came the greatest bust in our history. The crash of 1929 and after shook the very foundations of the American system.

The men in the Truman administration responsible for economic policy want to avoid another such boom-and-bust. They look on this matter of tax reduction as one of the two or three most vital factors.

An across-the-board 20 per cent tax reduction, such as Knutson proposes, would mean a tax saving of about $12,000 to a man with an income of $100,000 a year. But to the man paying taxes of $200 a year, it would mean a saving of only $40.

There has been considerable support in the administration for a tax reduction of a flat $200 for all taxpayers. This would eliminate millions of citizens who pay so little tax that the cost of collection is greater than the return to the government from the taxpayer. It would make it possible to scale down the vast bureaucracy now engaged in tax collection.

But that is not the primary reason why this proposal has important backing. The real reason is that it would increase purchasing power among the mass of consumers at a time when it is vitally important to maintain a national income of $150,000,000,000.

The small-income man who saves $200 on his taxes will spend all or most of it on things for his family, as contrasted with the man saving $12,000, who will put most of it into the bank or into investments.

What is most amazing is to find the bankers arguing once again—just as though 1929 had never happened—for the old theory of help the rich and thereby create jobs for the not-so-rich.

Their argument for new funds for investment comes at a time when banks and insurance companies are so chock-full of money that they do not know what to do with it. It comes at a time when the private savings of the top 5 per cent of the population are at a phenomenally high level.

Farmer's Diary: "Alive and Waiting."

THE FIRST warm day in January was filled with surprising life and movement, out-of-doors . . . that "eternal evidence of determination to live," that is one of the real joys of country surroundings.

The noon day sun shone full against the south wall of the shingled house. I watched a knot of a hundred or more insects move up and down in gnatly frolic. For two hours or more they danced, until the slanting rays told of near sundown and a cooler atmosphere. Then, as I watched, several flew against the wall and disappeared, no doubt to the shelter of the shingled crevices. Though the life of these protected adult flies might be a month or less, in summer, yet here was peace and apparent joy in draining all the pleasure possible from such a brief simple life. Perhaps when warmer days come again, the same troop will reappear.

On that same day, the south side of each bee hive was warmed by the generous sun. First one lone worker bee stiffly emerged, then others and still others, until by afternoon their numbers were as great as I had witnessed on any summer day. They tried their gleeful wings in search of bloom—I saw two more fortunate than most, light upon a faded flower of dandelion. Some tried the chickweed in the garden, but found no nectar.

I lifted each hive, and peered inside. The long brood combs still seemed weighted with bulging cells. But to make sure that all was well and to save what stores they had, I sifted white sugar near their place of entrance and put a shallow plate of water near. The busy humming increased, and I noticed many that came back empty from a distance, remained to feast upon the sugar that was so nourishing and required so little effort. Even at near sun down, great numbers moved in and out storing up the food.

Even if bees have no knowledge of delight in freedom and in food, many humanizing gave me pleasure at what they seemed to possess, of bee emotion.

In the afternoon I walked up on the slope. Beneath a wild cherry tree, I noticed what appeared to be a moist shiny branch, but on a second look, I saw it move and become alive. The black scaly head rose four inches above the leaves and a forked tongue moved in and out. The sun that awoke the gnats, had awaked him, too. A small round opening beneath a stone revealed the place where he had come forth.

Next morning the ground was again frozen. I went back, but found no trace of the blacksnake. I guess he went back home to sleep awhile longer.
